👤 PROFILE

Hi, I'm glad this resume has ended up in your hands because perhaps I am who you are looking for.

I have been doing web development for almost three years, during which time I have gained experience at all stages of product development, from planning to release. I set up servers, did front-end and back-end, and had experience in search engine optimization, but still, my strong point is the interface, which I spent more time on.
